

"I will not be subjugated"

Several solutions present themselves in this situation.

The criminal is a clear and present threat to a police officer's life and appears to a reasonable individual that he is willing to kill to avoid being taken into custody. He is a danger that needs to be neutralized immediately for your safety, the officer's safety and the people around you.

Shoot the bad guy in the back if you have a clear shot. Without warning. Multiple times.

If that isn't acceptable or you don't have a clear shot, approach the fight from the rear or side and introduce the bad guy's head to one of those hard plastic resin order separators as fast and as hard as you can. If the hard plastic resin order separators are not available, a heavy can (I like a 3 pound can of yams in heavy syrup) will do nicely.

If you try to call 911 or talk to the guy you will be wasting time.

This isn't a time to talk, its a time to act immediately and with overwhelming force.
